

Kenya/Tanzania/South African Safari, 2007

Now we are back home and getting back to the boring tasks of cooking and cleaning. This was a life altering trip. The portion with Kenya was fantastic. We could not have imagined anything more. It was not entirely wheel chair accessible but very easily managed. I would go back to Tshukudu Game Reserve in a heart beat. The owner and staff were amazing, very helpful and allowed to have a very interactive experience with the animals. The facilities were wheelchair accessible.

I plan to write a story for Damien to take to school so that he can share his summer vacation with his friends. Other parents may be interested to know that there is someone like you that is willing to help make family trips for people with disabilities a reality.

Thank you so much for helping us to have this experience. You turned one of the least accessible places in the world into the trip of a lifetime for Damien. The only problem now will be trying to decide where to go next. .
